Alleyman's Tarot Card:	XX Judgement (b2) (Page No. 195)
No. & Name of Plot:	42. Once in a Blue Moon
Expansion	Doorways to Dreams
Description	The Council of Dreams meet.
Specify	Specify (i) the Faction currently holding a Seat on the Congress which has called a Congress of Dreams (which does not need to be Activated, but may not be Activated by another Player who is not Allied with you and an Ally must agree to calling the Congress), (ii) the Dreamer who and nature of the shared Dream which calls the Congress and (ii) the matter regarding which the Congress has been called.
Notes	The Congress of Dreams comes together once in a Blue Moon, usually in Khalkan-Jho, but is held in a shared Dream so does not have a fixed location. It is composed of Delegates of Factions with significant influence in the Dreamworlds, and may be called together by a powerful Dreamer representing such a Faction Dreaming of a Blue Moon Rising over the intended location of the Congress (with other details indicating the nature of the matter to be discussed). Its proceedings are a shared Dream of the Delegates, and the outcome of proceedings therefore depends more on the relative power of Dreaming of those Delegates in favour of or against a particular motion than on any consensus or counting of votes. The business of the Council will be role-played if this Plot is played, with any votes determined in accordance with the Doorways to Dreams Rule on voting - except that the DM may determine how Seats held by Unactivated Factions vote, depending on the success of arguments (or other actions influencing voting) during the role-playing. VPs may be earned both for control of the Council (as per the Doorways to Dreams Rule on VP for control) and for role-playing at it.
